REINING PATHWAY IN DEVELOPMENT

US Equestrian and USA Reining are building a pathway to lead young reiners from the grassroots to international championships

As young reining athletes prepare for the FEI Reining World Championships for Juniors and Young Riders July 9-13 in Givrins, Switzerland, the United States Equestrian Federation and USA Reining are teaming up to build a solid pathway to international competition for young reining athletes in the U.S. That means more opportunities for young riders and their horses throughout the nation, says Bryn Wells, the USEF's Director of Reining and Eventing Programs.

"We're working with USA Reining to get USEF and USA Reining joint classes at more National Reining Horse Association competitions," Wells explained. "We're using the USEF Competition Lite model so it's an easier introduction—it's not as expensive or labor-intensive for organizers, and it gives kids their first introduction to a USEF competition. It offers another avenue for youth to show and compete their horses, and it's a way to show competitors some of what USEF has to offer.

"We work with youth on interscholastic and high-school teams, as well as young adults who are a part of the Intercollegiate Horse Shows Association and the National Collegiate Equestrian Association, and we have a Lettering Program and can help provide support in many areas. USEF has more to offer than just a class to show in," Wells continued, noting that plans call for adding scholarships to USEF national reining championships in 2020, too. "We're trying to get out to the grassroots level to make people aware that we're more than just the FEI level and the FEI World Equestrian Games™ teams for reining."

The reining pathway currently under development provides a natural progression and gradual exposure to the setting and experience of international and team competition. It starts with USEF/USA Reining classes at local shows, then progresses to fully USEF-licensed competitions, and then on to Fédération Équestre Internationale competition. Along the way, the new reining pathway eventually will also feature educational opportunities, such as clinics with riders from past gold medal-winning reining teams and practice FEI classes that introduce young riders to the ins and outs of international competition protocol.

“So you’d go from Competition Lite to a USEF competition on to an FEI competition,” Wells explained. “Along the way, we would have the clinics during the Competition Lite and USEF competitions to show the kids the differences at FEI-level competition so they can start to work that into their program, understand the rules, and better prepare their horses.”

The pathway also will incorporate scoreboard team competition at some of events, too, to introduce competitors to a team atmosphere.

“There’s added pressure when your score counts toward a team score,” Wells explained. “That’s something you don’t see a lot of at horse shows, but it can give kids a taste of the team experience before they compete internationally. Team competitions are something we are looking to incorporate into national championships and into other events throughout the year. We’d like to build the championships up again into a team competition similar to what NAJYRC used to be, so they feel that pressure of the team aspect.

“Equestrian is such an individual sport,” she said. “But when you go in there as the anchor for a team, you feel added pressure—team members talk about what a different feeling that is. So it’s something we want to help riders get exposed to and get used to, especially when they’re young. We’re hoping to make more opportunities and experiences available for competitors aged 14 to 21, so they have more experience with it before they go on to international competition.”

There are young equestrians with international potential all around the country, and USEF is committed to identifying and developing them.

“We also are working on ways to identify juniors and young riders that we think in the future could be part of a senior team and really work with them to get them to that next level, to get them on an international team and get them that experience,” said Wells. “We’re hoping to also include children’s classes for kids 13 and under in the future. The idea is to work with those youth as they go up through the age groups all the way to the Under 25s, so that when they hit the senior realm, the WEG is not the first time they’re seeing team competition.

“We’ve had some kids that have amazing horses who have taken them a long way but who might not be an elite-level horse or might not be the right age,” she added. “We have a really good network of people overseas and in the States, including trainers and past team riders, who really want to help. They are helping to identify owners who have horses available to give these youth the opportunity to compete. We do notice those riders, and we try to help them get to the next level of international competition, if that’s something they want to do. We are working with youth who maybe don’t have all the elements yet but who have the natural talent and work ethic.”

Even if a young equestrian doesn’t end up going into international competition, the new reining pathway will open up new opportunities and experiences for them and their horse.

“If we’re able to get scholarships at national championships, it will be an added bonus to competing for the national title,” said Wells.

In the March magazine:

- Our cover trainer of March is Duane Latimer, reigning Champion of the NRBC Open, who we interviewed in the lead-up to the 2019 edition. The Canadian-born trainer talked about his system for teaching the stop and rollback, and how experience is healthy for a trainer to learn how to control his own stress as well as that of his horses and to understand when it is time to stop

- The 28th of February marked the deadline for presenting the 'non-binding expression of interest' in hosting the next edition of the World Championships in 2022 for the various equestrian disciplines: Italy stepped forward to take pole position in this great challenge, with the splendid facility of Elementa near Rome. At the very same time by coincidence, members of the McCutcheon family (Tom, Mandy and Cade) were present in Rome as guests of Maria Cecilia Fiorucci of Elementa. We chatted with them about the WEG, among other things...

- We present another four-legged star, getting to know more about the beautiful mare Dun It For Chex, owned by Cardinal Reining Horses (Aubrey, Tx) and NRHA Hall of Famer since June 2018. She looks to be the horse that will become the second Million Dollar Dam in history after Ebony Shines

- A much-appreciated guest in this issue is Doug Allen from Great Britain: a rider and judge at the highest levels, for the readers of Horsense he reveals all the secrets of the freeze-up as seen from the 'chair' as well as answering some more general questions on the work of an NRHA judge

- Finally, our journey continues among those companies proposing innovative ideas for the sports horse and reining in particular: this time we talk with Gianni Guidolin, of the international feed group that bears this surname. Gianni explains how despite its size it has retained an 'artisan's' vocation Hickory) and Cats Picasso (Metallic Cat x Playboys Vixen x Hickoryote).

Metallic Cat is a long-time sponsor of the NRCHA and supporter of the reined cow horse industry.

“I am honored to have Bobby Patton, owner of Rocking P Ranch and Metallic Cat, extend his support by becoming the presenting sponsor of our largest and most prestigious event. I believe Metallic Cat is a great sire and has largely impacted our industry in a positive way,” stated NRCHA Executive Director Jay Winborn. “I appreciate everything team Metallic Cat has done for the association and our owners and riders. I am excited for Metallic Cat to present the 50th NRCHA Snaffle Bit Futurity.”

Bobby Patton, a Fort Worth, Texas, native is most likely known for his ownership of the Los Angeles Dodgers baseball team. In 2015, Patton entered the Western performance horse world and has been growing his program ever since. Year after year, Patton and his team continue to invest in the highly thrilling sport loved by so many.

“The last few years have been an exciting adventure into the performance horse world. The athleticism and intelligence of these horses continue to amaze me on a daily basis,” said Patton. “Rocking P Ranch is thrilled to expand our relationship with the NRCHA. Being a part of the 50-year celebration of the NRCHA Snaffle Bit Futurity is quite an honor for team Metallic Cat.”

For the third consecutive year, the NRCHA Snaffle Bit Futurity will return to the iconic Will Rogers Memorial Center, located in the Cowtown capitol, with more excitement and added money than ever before. Between celebrating the 50th running NRCHA Snaffle Bit Futurity and substantial increase in Futurity entries, you won’t want to miss out on this historic event.

In addition to the highly-anticipated futurity, the Hackamore Classic is available to 4- and 5-year-old horses to show in all three phases of competition and a complete slate of NRCHA-approved horse show classes are offered, bringing the total added money to $722,300.

Riders from other disciplines are also invited to compete in the American Rope Horse Association Futurity and the American Quarter Horse Association Ranching Heritage Challenge. Ancillary events included the elite Snaffle Bit Futurity Horse Sales produced by Western Bloodstock, sponsor showcase and prestigious NRCHA Hall of Fame Banquet. New for 2019, the association will be offering two invitational events – one for the working ranch cowboy and the other for non professional cutting horse competitors.

A free, live webcast will be available everyday of the premier event. All days of the event are free of admission, with the exception of finals days. Tickets will be available for purchase closer to the start of the event. Visit www.NRCHA.com for more information.

“The athleticism and intelligence of these horses continue to amaze me on a daily basis,” said Patton.

From their first press release, the organizers of Elementa Masters underlined that the selection of judges appointed to preside at all Elementa events would be based on maximum transparency and on one of the group's key concepts: "growth". We are not talking just about the unequalled level of prize money in each show category (aged events and NRHA approved), but also the growth of skills.

The jury will be composed of a US judge, two Europeans and two Italians

Elementa has set strict rules regarding the juries, with the choice of the judges designed to ensure balanced participation for members from different geographical areas and above all a selection made by drawing the names from a list, in the presence of a notary.

The long list of judges who may take the chair at the Elementa Masters Premiere was recently drawn up. This event will be offering the highest prize money ever of those valid for the NRHA Standings and will take place in Verona during Fieracavalli, from November 7 - 10. The jury will be composed of a US judge, two Europeans and two Italians, drawn among the names provided by the NRHA Judges Committee (3 names for USA and 5 for Europe) and by the IRHA Judges Committee (5 names).

The draw will be held in public and with a notary present.
