NRHA

NRHA REINSTATES 2020 WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

In a year of unprecedented challenges and seemingly endless unknowns, associations have struggled with difficult choices. Key among them has been making decisions that are best for the most members. The National Reining Horse Association, like other equine organizations, has waded through difficult waters, very aware of the reality that what benefits one member can negatively impact another.

The recent move of the NRHA Board of Directors to reinstate the NRHA World Championship races and titles for 2020 is a perfect example. In June, the championships were suspended because of how the COVID-19 pandemic had reduced the amount of shows, but feedback from members resulted in reconsideration of the issue.

NRHA President Mike Hancock noted, “At an impromptu meeting held at the NRHA Derby, people spoke of the months and months of preparation and planning that were part of hauling for a title. They stressed how important those World Championship races were to members, noting it was the title and not just the awards – that in view of the NRHA’s budget constraints, they would pay for their own awards if the titles were just reinstated. The board took a lot of time with the issue – considering several alternatives – from continental championships for North America and Europe among other ideas. But the central theme of what the board tried to accomplish, in my opinion, was helping us return to some form of normalcy even though it was still not the same for everyone. This decision does allow a large portion of our membership to reach goals they had set out many, many months in the past. Likewise, the members of the board do realize that there are people who are negatively impacted by this. There are just no simple answers.”

He explained that the issue will be reconsidered for 2021 and all options will be examined. For 2020, exhibitors must win money in seven NRHA approved shows to be eligible for titles.

An acknowledged impact of the COVID-19 pandemic has been the drastic reduction in revenue to the NRHA from shows around the world. A barebones budget enacted by the Board and Finance Committee resulted in staff and travel cuts and in some cases, member service streamlining. With that reality, the funding is simply not available for a full round of World Championship awards. At this point, some of the year-end awards have been sponsored by members wanting to assist and the board is hopeful that others will join suit in support of the program.

For NRHA Professional Jared Leclair, the process has been enlightening. “When I had an assistant trainer finish Reserve in the world for the Rookie Professional, I realized how important such a title can be for a young trainer. This was the first year I tried to go for a title, myself. I started out the year and didn’t completely understand how big a deal it was until the program was canceled.”

He continued, “People told me how important these standings and titles are to them and their careers and businesses. I had a dog in the fight for sure but I learned that there is a silent majority out there who base their business on this program and there are a lot of non pros for whom this is the ultimate goal.”

He complimented the process of addressing the issue – and the dedication of the NRHA Board. “This is a group of people who are volunteering their time to better the association. I saw them listen to all perspectives from the membership and try to come up with the best decision they could make in a difficult year.”

As far as the reduction in awards, Leclair noted. “Everyone who runs a business understands budget cuts. With this pandemic, we have all had to adjust our business models. We just need to keep people playing – keep goals for them.

Sure, we’d like to get a truckload of awards, but the title is the thing. We can understand as a group we want to keep this program going, keep the NRHA strong, and keep the industry alive for everyone.”

He urged others in the industry to step forward to help with sponsoring awards. Individuals and companies wishing to sponsor different classes should contact NRHA Senior Director of Corporate Relations Sammi Miller at smiller@nrha.com.

Since the world title race has been reinstated, all NRHA event approvals received January 1 through August 1 will be considered Top Ten Events, which count for year-end standings. For these events to count toward the standings, the approval must be complete with all information required. This gives show management and affiliates the opportunity for August and September events not yet submitted to be considered as Top Ten Events.

SMARTPAK INTRODUCES NEW AND IMPROVED SUPPLEMENT WIZARD

Supplement recommendation tool now offers exciting features to support the best health for your horse

SmartPak’s Supplement Wizard has helped thousands of riders unlock the secrets to a healthier horse. This simple and easy to use tool provides supplement recommendations and is now better than ever because horse owners have more ways to customize a program for their horse. The new functionality includes a view of ingredient totals, recommendation comparison charts, preference indicators and a budget slider.

To start using the Supplement Wizard, horse owners only need to answer a few questions about their horse’s lifestyle and diet. From there, the Supplement Wizard will guide you to the best supplement plan for your horse.

“We know that selecting a supplement program for your horse presents you with many choices, which can sometimes be overwhelming,” said Mandy Reisman, senior director of marketing and head of health at SmartPak. “The health team has worked hard to implement these new improvements to make creating that supplement program for your horse easier than ever. We are excited to bring these new features to light, and I expect our customers will love them.”

When building a supplement program for your horse, it can sometimes be hard to have a comprehensive view of the ingredients that are within all of the products – but not anymore! The Supplement Wizard now offers a feature that provides a complete view of ingredient totals across the entire SmartPak, including the breakdown by supplement. This is important to horse owners because it helps to determine where there may be gaps in support or even overlap in their supplement program, making for a more confident purchasing decision.

In addition to ingredient totals, there is also a recommendation comparison chart feature that provides users with the most valuable information when it comes to choosing between different supplements in a category. This chart allows you to compare the supplements by form, price and average customer rating. There is no need to open multiple product pages and create spreadsheets to compare the supplements of interest – the Supplement Wizard provides everything in one location that is easy to read.

Finally, horse owners can now provide their preferences when it comes to both the level of support recommended as well as setting budget guidelines. Now there is the option to choose from basic, enhanced, or comprehensive support. If you're looking to keep within a budget for your horse's program, you can set those parameters and the Supplement Wizard will take that into account when making the recommendations.

Whether you're at home or on the go, the SmartPak Supplement Wizard is right at your fingertips! SmartPak's Horse Health Experts are always available to answer any questions and walk through the details of the wizard recommendations. To give the Supplement Wizard a try, visit www.SmartPak.com/Wizard today.

About SmartPak

NRHYA EUROPEAN YOUTH COUNCIL GEARING UP FOR 2020

The European Youth Council of the National Reining Horse Association was launched in 2019 to support young reiners in Europe. Members of the European Youth Council work closely with the National Reining Horse Youth Association officers to promote the sport of reining and represent the needs of youth reiners on the continent.

"Even though this year is different in so many ways, the NRHyA hopes to provide a sense of optimism as we look towards the remainder of the year," noted Sara Honegger, NRHA Manager of Youth and Professionals Programs. "One of the ways we can do so is through our European Youth Council. Although it's only in its second year of exist-tence, it is a program we look forward to watching grow and flourish, especially focusing on involvement and leadership opportunities."

The 2020 European Youth Council is fortunate to have three familiar faces returning from the inaugural year, with Pia Boonstoppel, Netherlands, serving as President; Nanina Staub, Switzerland, as Vice President; and Erin Wielsma, Netherlands, in the role of Historian. Joining them will be Treasurer Isabeau Keiser, Sweden, and Secretary Elena Wuorimaa, Finland.

"I think our team this year is a really strong one. We can make anything happen together, and have already created a strong bond by video-calling and talking through our ideas.

Now that we are in this Council for the second year, we know our way better and have gained some valuable experience," Boonstoppel said. "I'm very proud of our team because everyone is now, in these difficult times, more motivated than ever."

Boonstoppel added that the youth reining programs in Europe have seen tremendous growth. "With Europeans being able to get involved with programs like the Varsity Reining Club, it gets really attractive to be an NRHyA member. We are always trying to get people to join the NRHA, because the more the merrier!" she said.

The EYC is currently organizing an Instagram Horse Show together with their counterparts in the United States. "This way people will still be able to 'compete' against each other since most of the events in Europe have been canceled," Boonstoppel explained. "As for the rest of the year, we are focused on getting a stable base for our council. We want to work closely with the U.S. Council so we can support and help each other."

Honegger stressed the importance of the fledgling European program, noting, "The council is an important volunteer opportunity for youth to represent NRHA at events, help spread the education and promotion of reining, and network with other youth members that have similar passion for the sport. They will also work closely with the NRHyA Officers."

Boonstoppel added, "The EYC is a great initiative to let us European kids become close and grow together. We are becoming a closer community every day. We are very thankful for every opportunity we get from the NRHA, and we will definitely work hard this year to make it happen."

For more information about the opportunities available to youth reiners, visit NRHyA.com.

2020 AUSTRIAN REINING FUTURITY & NRHA SHOW DEADLINE APPROACHES: AUGUST 3, 2020

Trial run has been successful in every way

The preparations for the Austrian Reining Futurity 2020 (Wiener Neustadt, August, 19-22, 2020) are in full swing in every respect. The show office is struggling through the multitude of entries and the trial run - the first show of 2020 in Wiener Neustadt - has worked out perfectly. Now the next entry deadline is close: until August 3, horses can be entered for the $57,000-added event with a 50% late fee. After that, a 100% late entry fee will be due. The final deadline for entries is August 18.

"Our first show this year went off without a hitch," says host Helmut Schulz. "The crush was huge - every day could have taken 36 hours, as there were so many riders and horses. The COVID 19 requirements were perfectly met. There were no problems whatsoever, especially since social distancing is easy at our facility. The catering also went very well." Particularly good experiences could be made with the new video wall, where sponsors and partners can present themselves during the Futurity. Information about the various possibilities and technical details can be obtained from Gerda Langer.

According to the current status of COVID 19 regulations, nothing should stand in the way of a successful Futurity. In August, the allowed number of visitors in Austria is currently set at 500. The reiners' enthusiasm is undampened in any case. Helmut Schulz estimates that there will be at least as many entries as last year: "German riders and horses are very strongly represented, but entries from Italy are also coming in continuously." Helmut Schulz asks all persons who are not directly involved in the show to refrain from a personal visit. The whole show can be followed via livestream.

3-y-o Go rounds on Wednesday, those for 4-y-o on Thursday

The Austrian Futurity starts on the afternoon of Tuesday, August 18th, with the first two Ancillary classes, Rookie Level 1 and Level 2, which will be conducted class in class. On Wednesday, August 19, the 3-year Futurity Open and Non Pro go rounds will take place, and on Thursday, August 20, the go rounds of the 4-year Futurity. The finals in the different levels are then scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

The announcement can be found on www.showmanager.info. Here you can also enter your horses online.

RHF ANNOUNCES 2020 SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS

The Reining Horse Foundation (RHF) is awarding $13,000 in academic and need-based scholarships to eight students in 2020. The recipients are: Cassandra Townsend of Andover, South Dakota; David Gringeri of West Haven, Vermont; Megan D'Andrea of Fowler, Ohio; Liz Blaser of Duncan, Nebraska; Morgan Ritz of Comstock, Nebraska; Morgan Knerr of Plain City, Ohio; Kelly Harper of Inverness, Florida, and Natalie Gydesen of North Loup, Nebraska.

Applications are reviewed by an independent committee with scoring based upon financial need, academic achievement, an essay, involvement in the National Reining Horse Youth Association (NRHyA) and community, and personal references. NRHyA members first apply as high school seniors, and if selected, are eligible to reapply.

Applicants in 2020 penned their essay about this topic: NRHyA members are having visible success in the show arena across many levels of competition. What does success look like for you—inside and outside of the reining arena? Their responses were creative and inspiring.

“I remember the first time I loped, my first blue ribbon, and my first reining pattern,” wrote Gringeri. “At those moments spirits were high, but I recognized that it was hours in the saddle and late nights at the barn that I was celebrating.”

Harper, a first-time scholarship recipient, wrote, “I have received an unwarranted amount of support from those around me, and soon it will be my turn to do the same for the next generation of young reiners.”

Townsend, Gringeri and D’Andrea will each receive $2,500 scholarships. Townsend is majoring in human biology in the pre-medicine pathway at South Dakota State University with the goal of becoming a physician’s assistant. Gringeri attends the University of Vermont majoring in business/finance preparing for a career in agribusiness. D’Andrea is pursuing her Bachelor of Science in nursing at Kent State University with plans to become an emergency Blaser and Ritz each are being awarded $1,500 scholarships. Blaser, the 2019 NRHyA President, is attending Wayne State College majoring in pre-professional/medicine with the goal of becoming an emergency medicine physician. Ritz is the 2020 NRHyA President and will attend South Dakota State University majoring in nutrition/dietetics. Both Blaser and Ritz held multiple NRHyA national officer positions.

Knerr is the recipient of a $1,000 RHF scholarship. She attends the University of Findlay with plans to become a pediatric pharmacist. She held multiple positions as an NRHyA officer, including president in 2017.

Earning $750 scholarships are Harper and Gydesen. Harper will attend Oklahoma State University to major in agribusiness/pre-law. Gydesen is majoring in animal science at South Dakota State University with the goal of becoming a veterinarian. Her scholarship is designated as the John McQuay Memorial Scholarship.

THREE NRHA TWO MILLION DOLLAR MILESTONES REACHED

The 2020 National Reining Horse Association (NRHA) Derby presented by Markel set many records, including three new NRHA Two Million Dollar milestones being reached: Rancho Oso Rio LLC became the newest NRHA Two Million Dollar owners, Jason Vanlandingham crossed the NRHA Two Million Dollar Rider mark, and A Sparkling Vintage became an NRHA Two Million Dollar Sire.

Rancho Oso Rio: NRHA Two Million Dollar Owners

Rancho Oso Rio LLC, owned by Jim and Pat Warren, is the third owner to reach this historic milestone, joining Arcese Quarter Horses, USA, and Rosanne Sternberg. The Scottsdale, Arizona, ranch reached the one-million-dollar mark in 2012.

Rancho Oso Rio came into the 2020 NRHA Derby presented by Markel just $1,000 short of the achievement. Ranch manager and NRHA Five Million Dollar Rider Andrea Fappani piloted Rancho Oso Rio-owned Shine Plum Shine (Shine Chic Shine x Plum Reyning) to tie to win the $6,000-added ancillary open class on Day Two of the marquee event, which paid $1,846—just enough to push Rancho Oso Rio onto the short list of NRHA Two Million Dollar Owners.

“This recognition is really all about Pat and Jim Warren,” said Fappani, head trainer at Rancho Oso Rio for 10 years. “They’ve been part of the sport for a long time. When they started, these major events didn’t pay as much as they do now. They stuck with it and hired some of the most influential trainers in the business, including Dell Hendricks, Randy Paul, and now myself. It’s special because they’ve been part of the entire circle, from breeding and raising foals to Pat showing in the non pro to having very successful open-caliber horses.”

The outstanding stock that represents Rancho Oso Rio could fill a book of its own, but a few standout horses have helped the ranch make headlines and win big checks. Here are just a handful of those horses and their most notable ac-

Electric Genes (currently owned by Tamarack Ranch LLC)—2010 mare by Jacs Electric Spark and out of Taris Designer Genes by Mr Boomerjac; LTE $89,913. Electric Genes' years in the show pen found her in the top five at the 2013 NRHA Futurity Open and reserve champion in other large open events. Her star continues to rise thanks to her offspring.

Custom Spook (currently owned by Rancho Oso Rio)—2007 gelding by Smart Spook and out of Custom Spindrella by Custom Crome; LTE $235,749. Most recently, Andrea Fappani showed this treasured gelding to win the $50,000 Freestyle Invitational at the 2019 Run for a Million.

Tinker With Guns (currently owned by Silver Spurs Equine)—2006 sorrel stallion by Gunner and out of Tinker Nic by Reminic; LTE $344,117. Tinker With Guns placed in the top five at the 2009 NRHA Futurity, was the 2011 NRHA Derby Open champion, and came back in 2012 to tie for reserve in the NRHA Derby Open.

Taris Designer Genes (currently owned by Tamarack Ranch)—2003 buckskin mare by Mr Boomerjac and out of Taris Little Vintage by Peppy San Badger; LTE $253,065. This standout mare won the 2006 NRHA Futurity Open. She's the dam of earners of $423,529.

Mr Boomerjac (currently owned by Christine Brazeau)—1994 stallion by Boomernic out of Boggies Last Jac by Hollywood Jac 86; LTE $138,829. Mr Boomerjac placed in the top five of the open division at the 1997 NRHA Futurity, won the 1998 National Reining Breeders Cup (now called the National Reining Breeders Classic), and competed in the 2007 FEI World Reining Masters.

Jason Vanlandingham Crosses $2 Million

In just five years' time, NRHA Professional Jason Vanlandingham accumulated enough earnings to become the newest NRHA Two Million Dollar Rider at the 2020 NRHA Derby presented by Markel, after finishing third in the go-round and winning the Level 4 Open Finals with A Vintage Smoke.

"The second million was a lot easier to get than the first million," the Whitesboro, Texas, trainer said. "It took 15 years to get the first million and five to get the second. When you're riding good horses and figure out how to get one shown, it comes faster."

Vanlandingham began his career training horses in 1998. He won his first NRHA Futurity Open title in 2013 with Not Ruf At All, a 2010 stallion by A Sparkling Vintage and out of All Ruffed Up, owned by Vaughn Zimmerman. That pair went on to win top honors at the 2014 NRHA Derby and the 2016 National Reining Breeders Classic. Vanlandingham reached the NRHA One Million Dollar Rider mark in 2015.

Many talented horses helped Vanlandingham bring in the checks to reach his second million, but one horse stands out. Arguably the most influential on the last five years of his career is A Vintage Smoke, a 2015 stallion by A Sparkling Vintage and out of Lady Smoke Peppy, owned by Diane Mesmer. Along with winning this year's NRHA Derby Level 4 Open, Vanlandingham and the black stud took top open honors at the 2018 NRHA Futurity and tied to win the 2019 National Reining Breeders Classic. The also placed fifth in the inaugural Run for a Million.

"The good horses have always taught me something," Vanlandingham shared. "Starting way back with A Smoking Whiz, he taught me how fast a horse can turn. Not Ruf At All taught me a whole different level of horse. I've learned something from all the good ones, and I try to make every horse I have be close to that, if not better. Good horses have taught me more than anything."

A Sparkling Vintage Becomes an NRHA Two Million Dollar Sire

Owned by Petra Zeitler Conner and Silver Spurs Equine LLC, A Sparkling Vintage has had quite an influence on the reining world. The 1997 bay stallion by NRHA Four Million Dollar Sire Shining Spark and out of Vintage Badger crossed the million-dollar mark in 2016, coincidentally with a co-reserve championship at the 2016 NRHA Derby with Not Ruf At All, shown by Jason Vanlandingham, and Platinum Vintage, shown by Todd Bergen.

With earnings in both the States and Europe, A Sparkling Vintage's influence is widespread. He was shown by Jeff Kasten, Ruben Vandorp, Fredrik Thomsson, Emanuel Ernst in Europe, and finally by Harper Conner. He stands for breeding at Silver Spurs Equine LLC in Arizona alongside one of his top-performing sons, Platinum Vintage.

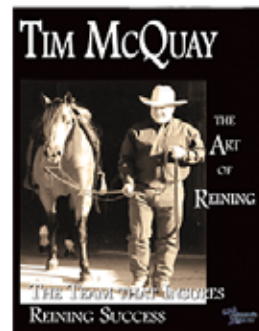

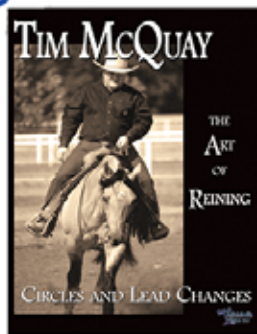

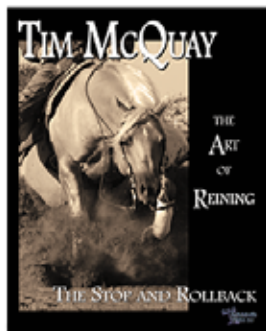

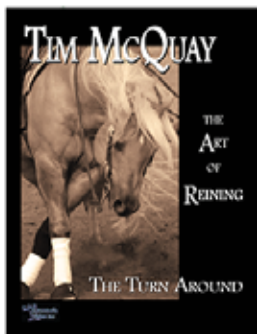

“(A Sparkling Vintage) has never had big foal crops like other big sires, and his first million was achieved from offspring I bred out of my mares,” Conner shared. “Vintage passes on his huge heart and very correct conformation to be physically able to use that heart in the show ring. What makes me especially happy as a breeder is that you have very talented, performing fillies by him as well.”

A Sparkling Vintage offspring continue to make waves in the show pen, bringing home solid scores and big checks for their riders and owners. Here are a few highlights from his most notable progeny.

NRHA TWO MILLION DOLLAR SIRE HOLLYWOODSTINSELTOWN LAID TO REST

National Reining Horse Association (NRHA) Two Million Dollar Sire Hollywoodstinseltown (Hollywood Dun It x Miss Tinseltown) passed away on July 5, 2020. Hollywoodstinseltown will be sincerely missed by NRHA and the reining industry.

Hollywoodstinseltown was laid to rest early in the morning on July 5 on a hilltop at Silva Reining Horses in Pilot Point, Texas. The 16-year-old palomino stallion was owned by Dave and Bonnie Silva and has long been the senior star of their reining endeavors.

Hollywoodstinseltown boasts both an NRHA Hall of Fame sire and dam. This son of NRHA Seven Million Dollar Sire Hollywood Dun It out of Miss Tinseltown, Hollywoodstinseltown was a product of the McQuay Stables training program. He earned Level (L)4 Open finalist slots at both the NRHA Futurity and Derby with Tim McQuay at the reins, who is an NRHA Hall of Famer, NRHA Three Million Dollar Rider, and NRHA Two Million Dollar Owner.

With that auspicious start, Hollywoodstinseltown went on to gather a list of titles and laurels with McQuay's assistant trainer Marco Ricotta that included the National Reining Breeders Classic (NRBC) L3 Championship and an NRHA Derby L4 Reserve Championship and L3 Championship.

His lifetime record would ultimately include earnings over $185,000 plus a World Equestrian Games gold medal with McQuay.

As his competitive career was winding down it was already evident that Hollywoodstinseltown would leave as dramatic a mark on the breeding world as he had in the arena. His foals showed promise early, catapulting him past the NRHA Million Dollar Sire mark in 2017, then crossing the $2 million milestone in 2019. His offspring currently have earnings over $2.5 million.

Tinseltown Fly Guy, out of Fly Flashy Jac, is Hollywoodstinseltown's highest money earning offspring with over $250,000 in NRHA earnings. He is followed by Shining In Town, out of Shine Ann, with almost $200,000 earned.

For the Silvas, Hollywoodstinseltown, or "Dave" as he was affectionately known, was much more than just an accomplished athlete and successful sire. He was part of the family and his humane euthanization due to the complications of a bacterial infection was heartbreaking. Their consolation will come from watching his legacy continue to grow and live on through his many foals – and those yet to be born.

NEW RULES FOR 2020 ADEQUAN® NORTH AMERICAN AFFILIATE CHAMPIONSHIPS QUALIFICATIONS

When the National Reining Horse Association Board of Directors met on July 2, a key discussion involved the qualification route for affiliate reiners hoping to compete in the 2020 Adequan® North American Affiliate Championships (NAAC) at the NRHA Futurity November 26–December 5.

With the looming possibility of COVID-19 restrictions impacting future shows, along with the number of events having already been cancelled, the Board approved the Affiliate Committee’s proposal that anyone receiving a score higher than a zero at an Affiliate Regional Championship be eligible to enter that class at the NAAC. It was felt that this solution would encourage people to attend the ARCs and support the affiliate program without limiting the number of horses that will attend the NAAC.

The Board also removed the existing stipulation that if someone competes in a class at an ARC, they are unable to compete at another ARC. So, for 2020, riders will be allowed to participate in multiple regional championships with one exception. If they win a class, they cannot compete on the same horse in the same class in another ARC (for example, a horse and rider that won the Non Pro ARC class at the Northwest Affiliate Regional Championships would not be allowed to compete in the Non Pro ARC class at the Southwest Affiliate Regional Championships).

“We feel that this is a positive solution that protects all the different components of the affiliate program,” said NRHA Affiliate Committee Chairman Kelly Brummett. “We’re still supporting the ARCs by requiring that people attend one to qualify. The clubs and affiliates that commit the work and effort every year are an essential and very appreciated part of this program, and we want to do all we can to help their events.”

Another benefit for exhibitors is, since qualification from the ARC is not limited to the top 10, people will not be bumped out of qualifying in their own ARC by people coming from other regions to compete.

Affiliate Committee Staff Liaison Sara Honneger is excited about the possibilities created by these measures. She said, “If you have ever thought you wanted to be a part of the NRHA’s Affiliate program, this is the year to see what it’s all about. 2020 has been a difficult year for so many, but maybe these new rules will give NRHA members a chance to try this program that we are so passionate about. We hope to see everyone at the Adequan® North American Affiliate Championships at the NRHA Futurity.”

2020 ADEQUAN® SELECT WORLD WILL BE HELD AT AQHA WORLD SHOW

The 2020 AQHA Select World Championship Show, presented by Adequan® (polysulfated glycosaminoglycan), which was postponed due to the coronavirus pandemic, is slated to be hosted at the AQHA World Championship Show.

The 2020 AQHA Select World Championship Show, presented by Adequan® (polysulfated glycosaminoglycan), will be held in conjunction with the AQHA World Championship Show, slated for November 5-21 at the OKC Fairgrounds in Oklahoma City. The Adequan® Select World, originally scheduled for August 31 - September 6 at the Will Rogers Memorial Center in Fort Worth, Texas, was postponed to help protect the health and safety of Select exhibitors, due to the coronavirus pandemic.

“AQHA greatly appreciates the Will Rogers Memorial Center staff and management for their understanding during this unprecedented time,” said Justin Billings, AQHA chief show officer. “We look forward to the opportunity to still host the Adequan® Select World in 2020 to highlight our Select exhibitors on the world stage this fall in Oklahoma City. The OKC Fairgrounds staff has also been extremely helpful with making modifications to be able to host the show this November. We are thankful for the support of both facilities during this challenging time.”

The tentative schedule will be posted at www.aqha.com/worldshow, once the schedule is modified to accommodate the additional classes and reviewed by the AQHA Professional Horsemen and Show councils.

As a reminder, members who originally entered the Adequan® Select World will automatically receive a full refund. If an exhibitor does not receive the refund within three weeks of the postponement announcement, contact worldshow@aqha.org. Exhibitors will have the option to enter the AQHA World Show when entry information is released in September.

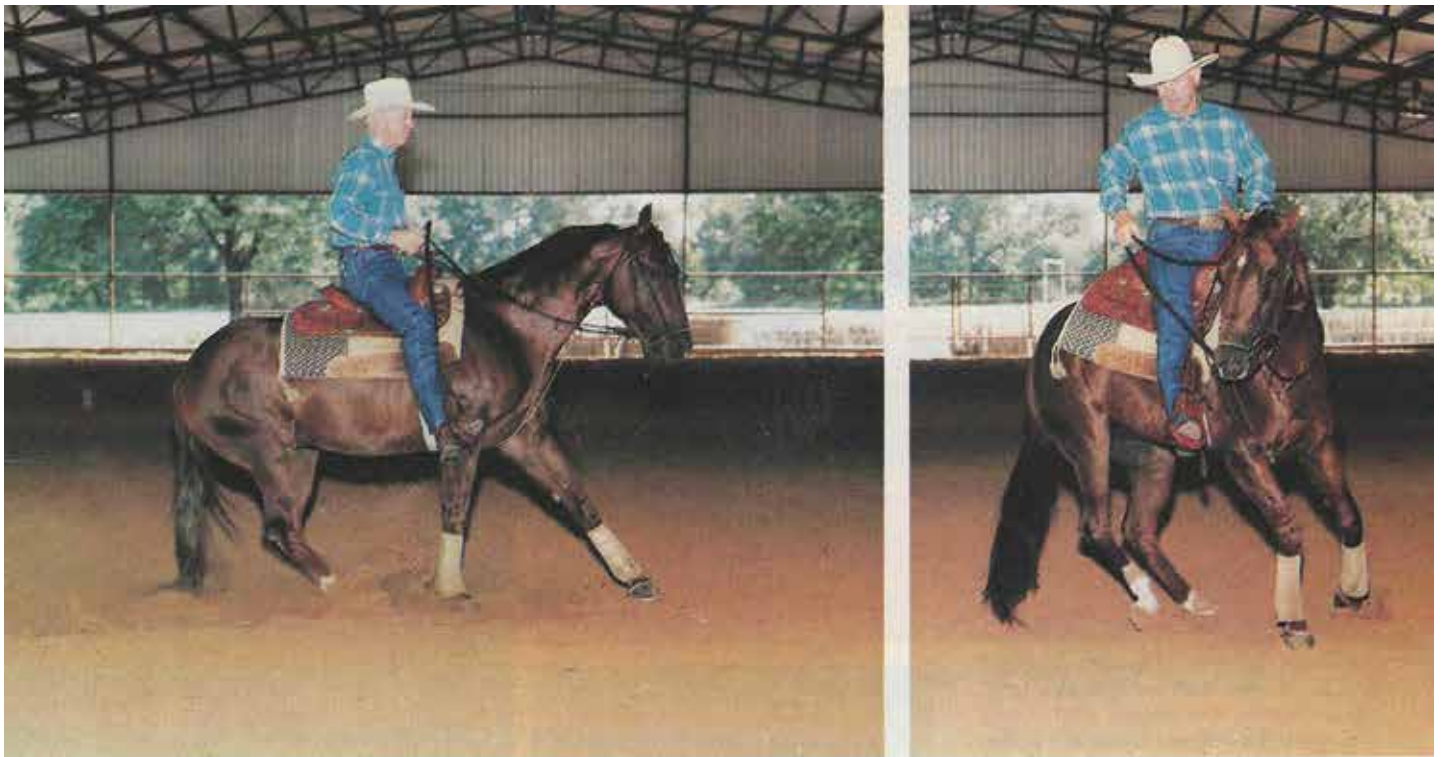

For more information about the AQHA World Show, visit www.aqha.com/worldshow.

THE ROLLBACK

Take a step back in time with THE ROLLBACK! Beginning in 2020, each issue will feature a bit of reining history through articles WorldWide Slide owner Cheryl Magoteaux Cody has written covering the events, the people, the skills and the art of reining. It’s a chance to remember when...

This article featuring Dick Pieper was printed in the November 1990(?) issue of Horse & Rider.

Dick Pieper:

THE BASICS OF REINING

By CHERYL MAGOTEAUX

Photos by Peri Hughes

Part III: Stops, Rollbacks, and Lead Changes

Last month, in the November '90 issue, Dick explained how to teach your reining prospect to carry himself properly on a circle, the early transition to neck reining (redirecting), how to control speed and introduce the spin—all important aspects of pattern work. At this point, the youngster is in kindergarten, and while he's learning the above skills, he's also being schooled in the basics of stops and rollbacks, and lead changes . . .

I start teaching the stop and rollback from a circle," says Dick, "and this usually begins fairly early in the program . . . At this point, the horse doesn't have any idea about 'whoa.' The stop and the rollback develop together. By the time I've rolled back enough so that the horse is stopping, he'll have a good rollback.

"To begin, we lope circles until the speed is uniform and a little faster than a slow lope. On the left lead, for example, we lope in a circle to the left, then I say 'whoa,' check with the right rein, pull the horse's nose around to the right, bump with the new outside (left) leg, then go off on the right lead. They'll get stopped sideways and crooked, but because they're soft to the sides and in the poll, they'll allow you to pull them around. Go three or four circles on the right lead, then check and release, bump with your leg, pull 'em around, and go off in another circle to the left. It's awkward at first, but they learn to be ready to get in position when they hear 'whoa.'"

Dick teaches the progression of "whoa, get stopped, turn around, go the other direction' until there is a predictable and conditioned response where the horse tries to find the easiest way to get the job done when he hears "whoa." The youngsters soon realize that the easiest way is to use their rear ends and get their shoulders up so they can move. "In a few days, they learn to pick that front end up and lope away on the other lead."

Timing Is Everything

Why is the word "whoa" so important for the stop? "Because when the leading foreleg is on the ground the other is in the air and both hind legs are coming up; all the horse has to do is sit down. If he misses that point, he has to take another stride to be in position. When we say 'whoa,' we allow the horse to get into position and he initiates the stop; we follow through with the bridle to hold him straight."

It is essential that the horse is soft to the sides to learn this maneuver. Dick cautions, "If the horse is green and you lope along and pull him to a stop, he learns that 'whoa' means pull. He'll push on you, shifting the center of gravity to his front end. That's the reason for teaching the stop this way; a horse can pull against two reins, but not against one—he pulls around (rolls back) instead. As long as we follow this routine of 'circle, whoa, pull around, send off the other way,' he doesn't get heavy in the front.

"Build on this exercise," Dick suggests. "When the horse can go at a good speed, then stop, momentum carries his stop a little farther. When the horse one speed, increase the speed, get consistent, and then increase the speed again. When I go to a straight line, I will stop with one rein, using the other just to balance. The pressure that causes the horse to stop comes from the rein that is opposite the lead the horse is on." But he cautions, "It's really important to remember not to pull any harder when you increase speed. Never pull harder; if the horse doesn't stop, do your little rollback—you will only get the horse stiff by pulling hard.

"Usually only about one colt in 10 will do this," Dick adds, "but sometimes a horse will anticipate the turn . . . he'll bounce one time and try to turn around before I ask him. If he does, I go ahead and say 'whoa,' let him start to make the mistake, then I'll take the well, I use the following steps to introduce and teach the lead change."

1. Reverse the Circle Position (Counterbend)

"We'll use the example of loping on the left lead, in a circle to the left. Our established body position is a curve (bend) which follows the arc of the circle—nose and hip slightly to the inside. Now we want to reverse this position (circle with a counterbend), so I'll tip the horse's nose to the outside and his shoulder to the inside (as if he were going to go right), while still using my outside leg to hold his hip to the inside of the circle (and prevent him from changing leads)."

Lope the horse in a couple of circles in this "reversed" position, then release and go back to the original is consistent at a particular speed, try it at the same speed in a straight line. If you get a nice little stop on that straight line, just let him stand there. If he pushes or the timing is bad, roll back and go the other way."

"It's very important to make the lead changes in a straight line when first teaching a horse this skill . . . Invariably, a horse that is taught to change direction for a lead change will change in front first and miss the change behind . . . Even with an NRHA competition horse—a great mover that is really "good-leaded" as a two-year-old—no matter how natural he is, I go through all these steps . . ."

Dick polishes this exercise, building consistency. "If the horse gets good at other rein and back up about 10 feet, then turn around the other way."

Lead Changes

Dick doesn't try to introduce his youngsters to lead changes or work very much on them until they've mastered the circle. "When they are really circling bend. "I don't do anything else about lead changes until the horse is comfortable with this exercise in both directions," Dick adds.

2. Reinforce Response to Leg Pressure

Go back to basics (see Part I, October

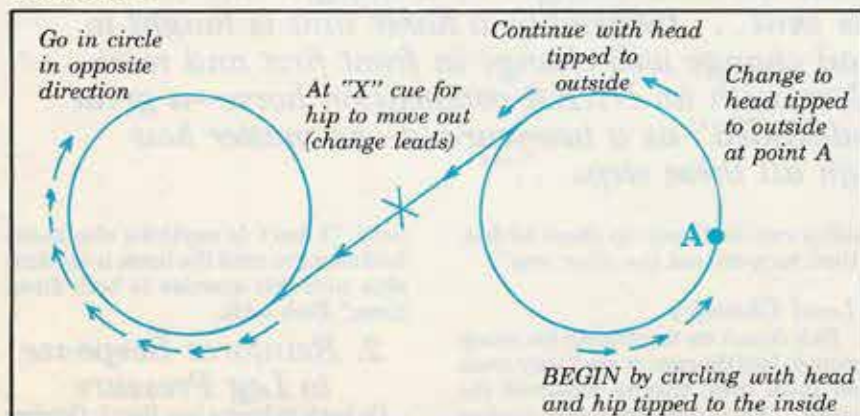

'90) and ask him to move his hips away from your leg at the walk, trot, and lope. "Make sure that when you lay your leg against his ribs and push, he'll respond immediately. If he goes 50 feet before he responds, he's not ready to change leads," Dick explains. To test the horse's response Dick suggests, "Walk in a straight line, and use your left leg to move his hip way to the right. Instantly move his hip back to the left with your right leg. When he responds immediately, he's ready for the next step."

3. Asking for the Lead Change

"I don't like to start a lead change from a circle, so I will lope the horse on a straightaway on the left lead. Then, I take the right rein and pull straight back toward my body, tucking the horse's nose to the right. My right leg will move the horse's body to the left, then I'll release with my right leg and press with my left leg—he should change leads behind, then in front, pretty much in the same stride. It's important that you hold the horse's head in position until he changes, then release the leg pressure, then release your hands," Dick explains.

It's very important to make the lead changes in a straight line when first teaching a horse this skill. "That way the horse doesn't associate the lead change with a change of direction." Invariably, a horse that is taught to change direction for a lead change will change in front first and miss the change behind. Explains Dick, "Even with an NRHA (National Reining Horse Association) competition horse—a great mover that is really 'good-led' as a two-year-old—no matter how natural he is, I go through all these steps. If you don't, he'll miss more leads because you didn't teach him to switch in the rear first."

Exercise 1

However, don't drill and ask for a large number of lead changes each day. Changing leads is a complicated maneuver that can be confusing or scary to a horse. "All the basics have to be solid and in place," Dick comments. "I'll normally do one change each way during each riding session and let that be it. I'll try to build up to a place where the horse is really comfortable changing each way I ask."

The Figure Eight

Once the horse is consistently changing correctly on a straight line, Dick begins to teach him to change from circle to circle using the following exercises:

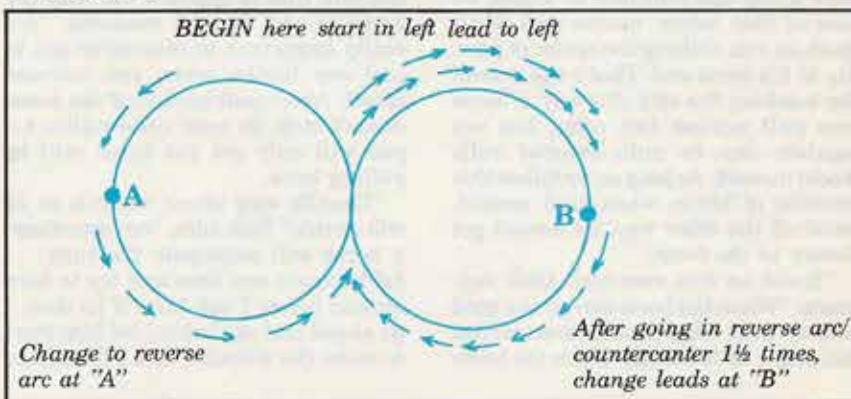

Exercise One—In this exercise, the horse is loping in a circle (in either direction, but for this explanation, we will start out on the left lead) with his body arced in the direction of the circle. At point A (see diagram), the rider brings the horse's head to the outside of the circle (to the right), while maintaining the horse's hip position with his right (outside) leg. The horse is kept in this position as he leaves the circle and moves in a straight line toward the next circle. Midpoint between the two circles, the rider releases pressure with the right leg and pushes with the left, causing the horse to change onto the right lead in preparation for the right-hand circle.

If he stiffens up while executing this "countercanter" in the second circle, circle a couple more times, then go back to the original (left-hand) circle without ever changing leads. If the horse switches leads in front when asked to counterbend or countercanter, then just break down to a trot, and go right back into the countercanter. But, if you really hold the horse up with your inside rein and push with your inside leg, he won't switch. The only time he'll switch in front is when there is too much slack in the rein

“Even with finished horses . . . we spend a lot of time loping straight lines, emphasizing speed control, circles, and stressing correctness and relaxation. Maybe a week before a show we’ll pick up the tempo a bit . . . If you have taken the time to instill the basics, the horse will be ready to perform for you.”

Timing is everything with a young, green horse. When his leading foreleg is on the ground (top photo) the other is in the air and both hind legs are coming up—this is the perfect time to say “whoa” because all he has to do is sit down (above). The horse initiates the stop and the rider follows through with the bridle to hold him straight.

Above, Dick demonstrates a reverse arc, or counterbend. A horse should be able to “reverse” his body position on a circle in both directions before lead changes are introduced.

BACK IN A FLASH

When we first start to ride a colt, we’ll ask him to take a few steps backwards. We begin this exercise when he is just beginning in the hackamore—even before he is flexing at the poll.

At this stage, it is very important not to pull with a constant pressure. Instead, pull with the reins as you give leg pressure with both legs, and release as soon as he steps back—then ask again and release. Even on a finished horse, you pull and release in rhythm with the horse’s backing instead of pulling with steady pressure.

When you pull, then release, you give the horse a reason to back up. He’ll be willing to back because he’s learned how and is looking for the place to get that release. A steady pull takes away his reason to back because he is never rewarded by the release, and he’ll get really sluggish.

If the horse is to the point where you can push him up into the bridle, so he is flexing at the poll and driving off in a straight line forward, then backing is easy for him. He’ll give his head, respond to the leg and bridle pressure, then move away from the pressure to find the release.

Quickness in backing comes when you increase your leg pressure. Leg pressure means “go somewhere” to the horse; the bridle keeps him from going forward. You speed him up by applying more leg pressure, not more pressure on the bridle.

—Dick Pieper

(the outer rein on the first circle, which is the inner rein on the countercenter).

For example: In the right lead, but going in a circle to the left, the left rein is the inside rein. Pressure there holds the shoulders up and keeps the horse from switching leads in front. Also, you are still “holding” him with your left leg.

The point of both these exercises is to emphasize that a change of direction doesn't necessarily mean a change of lead and vice versa—the horse learns to listen instead of anticipate.

Don't Overdo It

Once a horse begins to master the reining skills, there is a temptation to ask him to execute and repeat them all daily in a training session. "That is a mistake," warns Dick. "Even with finished horses, we'll lope a few circles, turn around slowly and stop at a slow speed—exercise them. We turn our horses around every day, and do a couple of soft, correct rollbacks. With most of our horses, we spend a lot of time loping straight lines, emphasizing speed control, circles, and stressing correctness and relaxation. Maybe a week before a show we'll pick up the tempo a bit.

"If a horse knows how to do the really difficult things well, and he's legged up and in shape, it only takes about three days to get ready for a show. After those days of tuneup, we'll spend the last day or so emphasizing quietness and correctness."

Seasoning for young reining horses is minimal. "The ideal is to take the horse to a small show, then one small futurity before the big futurity event. If you have taken the time to instill the basics, the horse will be ready to perform for you when the time comes."★

Originally from southern Ohio, Dick Pieper appeared on the scene in the '60s and quickly rose to prominence in the horse show world. In 1987, he and his wife Brenda left Willowbrook Farms in Pennsylvania to relocate in Marietta, Oklahoma. Their training facility, the Pieper Ranch, boasts a newly constructed 90 x 120-foot indoor arena.

"It's a great location—close to many major horse events. The ground is great, and the climate allows us to ride outside most of the year." Beyond that, there is a great availability of horses. "In sheer numbers, there are over a million registered Quarter Horses in Oklahoma and its bordering states. If there are more horses here, our chances are better for finding the great ones!"
