A RED STRIPE CAN HELP SELL YOUR HORSE AT THE NATIONAL REINING BREEDERS CLASSIC

National Reining Breeders Classic blue will be making room for a new hue at the 2021 show slated for April 18-25 at the Great Southwest Equestrian Center in Katy, Texas. During the show, some of the back numbers will be sporting a red stripe, but why?

“The NRBC Board of Directors decided to do this as a service for our exhibitors to allow them to advertise that the horse they are riding is for sale,” said NRBC President Tom McCutcheon. “The red stripe can be requested at the show office for a $5 donation to Rein In Cancer and can be added to any back number.”

In the past year, the Covid-19 pandemic has affected the buying and selling of horses. Travel has been challenging for many, so this will allow prospective buyers to easily spot horses being offered for sale during the show, even as they are being shown. The red stripe will also be visible to those watching the live feed from home. The horses' owners' and riders' names will be shown on the screen during the run, as usual, so making a connection will be simple.

Or if the horse is seen schooling, an interested person can drop by the horse show office to find out how to contact the owner just by giving the back number.

NRBC Show Manager Cheryl Cody noted, “We always need to give credit where credit is due so it's necessary to say that this was not an original idea. This concept was used at the Florida Reining Classic and several members who had attended there came to us and asked us to do it. We thank the Florida crew for coming up with an exceptional idea to help reiners!”

Reining Horse Foundation Turns 20

TWO DECADES OF HELPING REINERS

Reiners helping reiners is a story that never gets old, and the Reining Horse Foundation, which turns 20 in 2021, has been helping that happen for two decades.

It's often a real eye-opener to find how much help is available. When Bud Roebuck, an NRHA Professional, had his Florida training facility destroyed by a tornado he did not even think of reaching out until a friend urged him to do so. He said, “I guess I thought that the Foundation help was mostly for people who had injuries or illnesses.”

But the RHF has a broader focus and its Dale Wilkinson Memorial Crisis Fund helped Bud and his family survive the setback. “Like most people in the horse world, it was hard to admit we needed help, but the funds really took the pressure off while we rebuilt and got our business going again.” These days, Roebuck, like many others who have received assistance, is committed to giving back to the Foundation.

That same giving spirit from people around the globe is allowing the charitable arm of the National Reining Horse Association to kick off its milestone year announcing increases in grants available through its cornerstone program, the Dale Wilkinson Memorial Crisis Fund. NRHA members impacted by medical, accident and disaster hardships will find that the Foundation grant maximums are now 20 percent greater and that is on top of previous increases made in 2016 and 2017. Go here for complete details on grant tiers and criteria.

“Increasing these grants is an ideal way to commemorate two decades of support for the reining community. The Dale Wilkinson Memorial Crisis Fund has been helping reiners since shortly after it was established in 2001,” said RHF President Tim Anderson. “In recent years our Board of Directors has been dedicated to substantially increasing the amount of financial support we can provide to NRHA members in crisis. Thankfully, donors from around the world are stepping up to make these larger grants possible.”

Other welcome news for this anniversary year is that the Foundation plans to host its largest annual fundraiser, Sliders’ Night Out presented by Toyon Ranch. The event, which takes place annually during the NRHA Futurity, was postponed in 2020 due to COVID-19 restrictions, but it is expected to come back bigger than ever in 2021 to celebrate the RHF’s 20th-anniversary theme.

“We hope that continued strong donor support will allow us to make additional announcements around our core programs in 2021,” said Rick Clark, NRHA president and member of the RHF Board of Directors. Clark also chairs the Foundation’s Development Committee and is enthusiastic about future projects. “We have some ambitious goals to expand the scholarship programs for members of the National Reining Horse Youth Association and establish an endowment that will support this organization’s work for decades to come.”

The Dale Wilkinson Memorial Crisis Fund exists to help reiners and in 2021, has increased most grant maximums by 20 percent. That increase is in addition to the substantial increases made in 2016 and 2017.

The RHF Crisis Fund criteria separates grant applications into a four-tier system depending on the type of hardship. With this increase, Tier 1 medical and Tier 2 accident grants will increase to a maximum of $3,600 each, and Tier 3 disaster grants will increase to a maximum of $6,000.

NRHA members in need of assistance can get a Crisis Fund application and see details here or contact Leslie Baker, RHF Executive Director, at lbaker@nrha.com or (405) 946-7400.

Follow RHF on NRHA’s social media channels, including weekly #FoundationFriday posts on Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn and Twitter. MATT MILLS REINING HORSES TO SPONSOR NRBC OPEN DRAW PARTY

Matt Mills Reining Horses has been a long-time supporter of the National Reining Breeders Classic as sponsor of the Matt Mills Victory Party until last year when the Covid-19 Pandemic led to the cancellation of the gathering. In 2021, the story will likely be the same, so Matt Mills Reining Horses opted to move its sponsorship to the Open Draw Party.

Normally a heavily attended event with food and drinks and a Calcutta, the Open Draw Party will be a virtual one in 2021 but still promises to be fun and entertaining with owners and enthusiasts across the globe able to watch online.

“Karen and I, along with our clients and friends Mark and Janice Dickson and Tim and MaryBeth Ruckman look forward to the National Reining Breeders Classic every year,” Matt Mills shared. “We’ve been longtime supporters and are extremely excited to have the opportunity to sponsor the Open Draw Party this year! Cheryl Cody and her team do an incredible job of putting on one of the best reining events of the year. We wish the best of luck to all of the exhibitors competing here at the 2021 National Reining Breeders Classic in the sport that we all love so much, reining!”

A recently-crowned NRHA Million Dollar Rider, Matt

was one of the trainers featured on Paramount Network’s “The Last Cowboy” and was a part of The Run for a Million in 2019. He trains and shows futurity and derby horses and coaches Non Pro and youth riders and is always in high demand for clinics in the United States, Europe and Mexico.

Another successful project that takes up some of his time can be found at MattMillsReining.com where his popular on-line instruction videos can be found. With all of that going on, Matt is consistently ranked on the NRHA Top Twenty Professionals Riders list and is regularly a finalist at major NRHA events earning multiple titles including NRHA Intermediate Open Futurity Reserve Champion.

He also has a successful track record at the National Reining Breeders Classic and has earned several large futurity and derby titles including RM-RHA Summer Slide, High Roller Reining Classic, SWRHA Futurity, and the NRHA Cowtown Classic. In 2006, he was a member of Team USA that took the Gold Medal at the World Equestrian Games in Aachen, Germany.

NRHA’S REINERSUITE CELEBRATES FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Although a one-year anniversary is traditionally celebrated with gifts of paper, paper is just what the National Reining Horse Association’s phenomenally successful ReinerSuite has helped to reduce. That is because the online membership tool has already significantly lessened the need for printed forms and applications in its very first year of existence.

NRHA Commissioner Gary Carpenter was the driving force behind the creation of ReinerSuite, a program released in late February 2020. The web-based software was developed in concert with The Jockey Club Technology Services. TJCTS, a sister company to The Jockey Club, is a worldwide leader in the equine industry as far as technology and responsible for the custom system that powers Thoroughbred horse racing.

Looking back on last year's successful rollout of ReinerSuite, Carpenter said. "We are proud of where we are today. In the next three to five years, we will look back and be amazed at the progress it has allowed us to make. We have a data-rich environment and there is so much information floating around that can be used more effectively for the good of our industry."

REINERSUITE

ReinerSuite remains a work in progress as it continues with improvements and additions. Such was the case with the Eligibility Checker, which came four months after the release. "New features will be added as the NRHA staff and members use it and know what we need. Next will be offerings in the show program, but the whole process is continuous," he added.

There will be new milestones to come, but a glitch-free rollout and a year of successful usage is something to celebrate! Former NRHA President Mike Hancock said, "I believe this is one of the most significant projects in the history of the NRHA. It allows us to be more accurate, faster, and opens the door for more information at our fingertips."

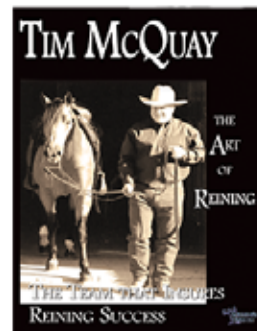

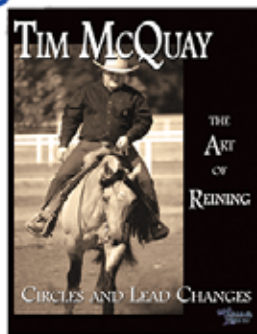

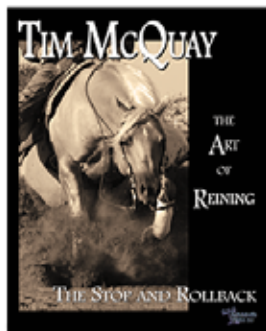

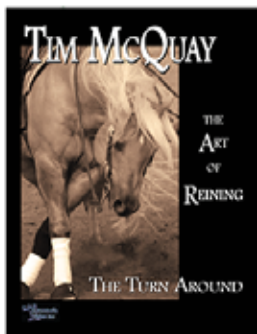

According to Angie Honeywell, NRHA Senior Manager of ReinerSuite and Futurity Sale, the association's membership has overwhelmingly embraced the new technology. "Currently more than 73 percent of our members are using it," Honeywell shared. "We continue to receive positive feedback about the convenience of being able to do tasks online, like renewing memberships, checking eligibility, and more."

"ReinerSuite is loaded with features to help our members. They can use the Eligibility Checker, make nominations, access member reports and the calendar, and their membership card is available digitally," she said. "All this is available to members 24/7. Memberships are effective immediately upon purchase, and competition licenses and transfers completed in ReinerSuite allow for a much quicker turnaround time, typically only a few days."

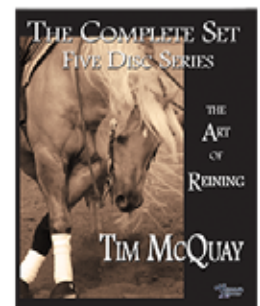

The long-awaited technology has not only been a success for members but for show management and offices, as well. Kathy Gould, show secretary for the three largest NRHA-approved events, said, "During a show, people can use their phone to transfer a horse or update their memberships and get an immediate email confirmation, and using it saves them money as well. In the show office, we rely on it for eligibility verification."

NRHA Professional Shannon Rafacz is an ardent fan of the program, and noted, “First and foremost, having everything online is super-efficient for me. Between the online memberships and the ability to do competition licenses ourselves, it has been a very helpful and simple process. Three or four clicks and it’s all done.”

Rafacz added that, although the program can seem imposing at first, help is only a phone call away. “Change is hard for anyone, for sure. But if we as members take time to learn how it works, it’s actually very simple. My advice is to just ask questions if you have them because the people at the NRHA have been great to help,” she said.

Honeywell added that one still under-utilized feature of ReinerSuite is the completion of competition license applications and license transfers. As user-friendly as the system is, additional learning materials like video tutorials, are being added so that members can benefit even more from what ReinerSuite has to offer.

K BAR 4 RANCH TAKES OVER THE REINS OF TULSA REINING CLASSIC

In mid-March, Colleen McQuay and Anne-Marie Burns announced on behalf of Global Reining Sport Group that the Tulsa Reining Classic had been transferred to K Bar 4 Ranch, Inc., and owners Pete and Tamra Kyle.

In its ten years of management by the Global Reining Sport Group, the event has grown into an industry mainstay. During that exciting decade, the Tulsa Reining Classic introduced innovative programs that are now implemented at events around the country. The show welcomes nearly a thousand horses from around the globe each August. It hosts the South Central Regional Affiliate Championships and is considered to be one of the most popular events for that National Reining Horse Association program.

With the event’s continued growth, partner Anne-Marie Burns found herself struggling to balance the time needed to manage the project and her busy career. She said, “The Tulsa Reining Classic is near and dear to my heart. As the time came to pass the torch, the ten years we spent cultivating the event brought so many key people to mind. We are sincerely thankful to all of those who have served in any capacity to make this event what it is today! We really appreciate Cheryl Cody and her team for all of their help in the past!”

With granddaughter Carlee McCutcheon’s rising Hunter/Jumper career, Colleen McQuay was unable to commit time to the show, as well. McQuay noted, “We have poured so much into this event and we are very proud of the level it continually maintains, thanks to the many people including OKRHA, Pro Management, our sponsors, and the exhibitors and owners who have been part of it. We have full confidence that Pete and Tamra will maintain the show at its current level, and we are excited to see what new ideas they bring to the table. We will support them in any way we can.” McQuay and Burns continue to be immersed in the horse world and look forward to continuing their mission of education and implementation of innovative projects in the future.

The Kyles are enthusiastic about the future of the Tulsa Reining Classic. Pete Kyle said, “We are excited and feel fortunate to be a part of this premier event and understand all the value that it brings to the reining industry. We are committed to securing its future and thank Colleen and Anne-Marie for this opportunity. Their time, energy, and talents, along with Cheryl Cody and Pro Management have made the Tulsa Reining Classic a home for all levels of our reining family.”
